

CONTENTS

Foreword	7
Chapter I
ANDREA PERRUCCI—Core Tenets
for the Art of the Modern Actor	10
I.1 Verisimilitude.....	14
I.2 Art and Nature	16
I.3 Measure	25
I.4 Reason and the origin of the idea of an actor’s “Presence”	26
I.5 Theatre—a collective art run like a Monarchy	29
I.6 Mistakes and remedies.....	31
I.7 The actor between Norm and Exception or between Rule and Improvisation	34
I.8 Professional Ethics and Morality: Propriety and the Defence of the Soul	35
I.9 The Audience	37
I.10 On Improvisation	38
I.11 Usus te plura docebit	40
Chapter II
STANISLAVSKI and the Psychological Substantiation
of the Actor’s Art	42
II.1 Russian theatre before Stanislavski.....	43
II.2 Konstantin Sergeyeovich Stanislavski(1863-1938) Stages of the artistic development	46
II.3 Principles, rules of creation, or “The System”	52
II.4 The guiding principles of the Art Theatre and Studio I	71
II.5 Creative Freedom.....	81
Chapter III
VIOLA SPOLIN or the Elevation of Improvisation
to a Standard Practice	82
III.1 Viola Spolin (1906-1994)—Biographical overview	83
III.2 Influences—Neva Boyd and Stanislavski.....	90
III.3 The three essential Rules of Viola Spolin’s Method or Three sine qua non rules of the new methodology	96
III.4 Technology and Terminology.....	115
III.5 Children and Theatre—some rules for the Pedagogy of the Child-Actor	125
III.6 The Rule of Creation and Artistic Freedom	133
Bibliography	136