

CONTENTS

Introduction	7
---------------------------	---

Chapter I.

APPLIED THEATRE AS AN EXPERIENTIAL LEARNING METHOD AND AS A TOOL FOR SOCIAL INTERVENTION IN VULNERABLE GROUPS	12
I.1. Forms of Applied theatre – conceptual delimitations	13
I.1.1. Representatives of Applied theatre and their contributions	16
I.1.2. The theoretical and methodological foundations of Applied theatre	21
I.2. Experiential learning through theatre	26
I.2.1. Theatre and skill development through play	30
I.2.2. The formal and non-formal educational models in individual education	36
I.3. Theatre as individual and group therapy	42
I.3.1 The therapeutic potential of arts in vulnerable groups – an interdisciplinary perspective	47
I.3.2. Forms of Art therapy through theatre	53
I.4. Inclusive education and social integration through theatre	56
I.4.1. Social integration through artistic expression	59
I.4.2. Applied theatre as a tool for shaping prosocial values	62
I.5. Benefits of social intervention through artistic means	65
I.5.1. Emotional intelligence and increasing the quality of life	69
I.5.2. The cathartic function of theatre	72

Chapter II.

MULTIDISCIPLINARY EXPLANATORY-INTERPRETIVE MODELS OF REFUGEE INTEGRATION – FROM THE PSYCHOLOGY OF CULTURE SHOCK TO COGNITIVE, AFFECTIVE AND BEHAVIOURAL ADJUSTMENT	74
II.1. Meanings of interculturality	75
II.1.1. Dimensions of cultural diversity	78
II.1.2. Intercultural dialogue	80
II.1.3. Multiculturalism – pluriculturalism – interculturality	84
II.2. The issue of refugees – a major area of research and practice	89
II.2.1. Political, economic and socio-cultural aspects of migration	89
II.2.2. Refugee trauma and psycho-emotional adjustment strategies	96
II.2.3. Educational strategies	98

II.3. The profile of refugees – psychological and psychosocial characteristics 100

 II.3.1. Culture shock and adaptive capacity..... 104

 II.3.2. Identity issues vs. public opinion..... 107

II.4. The psychology of child / teenager refugees..... 110

 II.4.1. Trauma 110

 II.4.2. Affective, cognitive and communication problems..... 112

 II.4.3. Psychological parameters of adaptation..... 117

II.5. Perspectives of refugee integration programmes through the arts..... 119

 II.5.1. Successful international models..... 119

 II.5.2 The war in Ukraine and the need for action 125

Conclusions 130

Bibliography 137